CUSTOMER

Oil and Natural Gas Company in Calgary, Alberta, Canada

CHALLENGE

Handling data during mergers and acquisitions is never easy; it's why companies should always consider a solution that helps streamline the process for a smooth data transfer from one company system to the next.

While in the process of acquiring new assets, our customer was looking for a reliable and low-cost solution to bring new production data into Emerson's Zedi Cloud SCADA Platform. As a current customer, they understood the distinct value the cloud-based platform presents and offers in stronger return.

The customer required that the project to be completed promptly and ensure a well-organized migration. As an existing customer, Emerson was quickly trusted to take on the challenge of merging all the data and delivering on their project objectives.

“The efficient migration of new assets into the platform provided a fast and seamless asset data exchange from the previous owners to ourselves.”

SOLUTION

By prioritizing the customer's needs, Emerson was able to analyze the best process for execution and to promptly and completely integrate newly acquired assets into our Zedi Cloud SCADA Software. All high priority wells and meters were quickly set-up in Emerson's Zedi Access and Zedi Vital Software.

Our experts also recommended Zedi Roughneck Software that offers fixed asset management, health, safety, and environmental data, with several unique modules to improve efficiencies in different operational areas.

Turnaround on the project was completed within a month, meeting all of the customer's deadlines. Now, the company can continue keeping their operating costs within budget while maximizing their return on the newly acquired investment.

With our Zedi Cloud SCADA Software, the customer was given easy access to clean, efficient data from anywhere at any time which assisted in making this merger smooth, easy and quickly profitable.
